

John J. Simon

39th New York Infantry

Enlisted 12/21/1863 at New York City, NY as a Private, and mustered into "I" Co. NY 39th Infantry
Mustered Out on 7/1/1865 at Alexandria, VA

Promotions: Corporal; Private (Reduced to ranks)

United States Marine Corps

John Simon began his military career during the Civil War as a Private, promoted to Corporal, and later reduced to the rank of Private while serving in the 39th New York Infantry. At the age of 20, he enlisted on 12/21/1863 in New York City, NY as a Private and Mustered Out on 7/1/1865 at Alexandria, VA. His Army enlistment records document he had a light complexion, a height of 5 feet, 4 inches; gray eyes; light hair; born in Germany and his occupation was a shoemaker. After his discharge, he apparently headed west and would enlist in the Marine Corps as a Private in November of 1865 and remained in the Corps until September of 1868.

Marine Corps enlistment records shows his age was 23, which corresponds to his previous Army enlistment; a height of 5 feet, 6 inches; gray eyes; dark hair with a dark complexion; born in Germany; and his occupation was a shoemaker. During his service in the Marine Corps, he was stationed at Mare Island, California, and served On Board the USS Suwanee. The Muster Rolls show that he had been confined to a cell for desertion from Oct 19, 66 – Nov 15, 66, but returned to duty. His Civil War Pension File shows a home of record as West Berkeley, California. The similarities leave very little doubt that the enlistments are for the same person!

UNITED STATE MARINE CORPS CIVIL WAR MODEL 1840 NCO SWORD

Currently, there is ongoing research into the swords carried by Marines during both the Civil War and Post Civil War period, and new facts are being discovered. This sword was in Kevin Hoffman's private collection of Marine Corps swords and was acquired from the Horse Soldier in Gettysburg. The sword is a Horstmann marked Model 1840 NCO with the reverse clam shell cast in the downward position, and is 37 1/2 inches long with 31 1/2 x 1 1/8 wide blade. The brass hilt is tight with even patina and is marked twice with the assembly number 8. The black leather scabbard is complete with all original brass and fits perfectly to the blade. Prior to 1869, Horstmann had two contracts with the Marine Corp for musician swords: one in 1859 for 40 swords. These went to the Band, but in June 1861 the Commandant altered the pattern by having the inner counterguard removed, and it is believed Horstmann produced another 40 swords with no inner guards. Engraved on the front claim shell is U S M C above the name John J Simon. John Simon began his military career during the Civil War as a Private, promoted to Corporal, and later reduced to the rank of Private while serving in the 39th New York Infantry. At the age of 20, he enlisted on 12/21/1863 at New York City, NY as a Private and Mustered Out on 7/1/1865 at Alexandria, VA. He apparently headed west and would enlist in the Marine Corps as a Private in November of 1865 and remained in the Corps until September of 1868. During his service in the Marine Corps, he was stationed at Mare Island, California, and served on board the USS Suwanee. Given Private Simon's post-war enlistment in the Marine Corps occurred in California ending in 1868, it is doubtful the sword could have gotten to the state by anything other than the Marine Corps. This raises the possibility that the sword was one of the 40 Horstmann provided in 1859. Simon's sword does fit the pattern associated with those swords made under the Horstmann's 1859 contract and is unlikely a post war sword since this configuration no longer was in production. Why Simon had this sword is unknown because he was not a musician and only served as a private. Included with the sword is a historical binder documenting Simon's Army and Marine Corps history.

USS Suwanee (1864)

The first USS *Suwanee was a 3rd-rate gunboat commissioned by the Union Navy in its struggle against the Confederate States of America in the American Civil War.

Commissioned late in the war, Suwanee spent several weeks searching for the Confederate raider CSS Shenandoah without success. Suwanee was eventually wrecked off British Columbia in 1868.

Suwanee—a double-ended, iron-hulled, sidewheel-propelled gunboat—was built for the U.S. Navy by Reaney, Son & Archbold of Chester, Pennsylvania. She was 255 feet in length, with a beam of 35 feet, draft of 9 feet, hold depth of 12 feet and displacement of 1,030 tons.

Suwanee was powered by a 58-inch bore, 8-foot 9-inch stroke, inclined, direct-acting steam engine, fitted with a surface condenser. Steam was supplied by four boilers: two main boilers of the horizontal, tubular type, and two superheated. The ship was also rigged as a two-masted schooner for auxiliary sail power. Total cost of the vessel was $171,000.

Suwanee was launched on 13 March 1864, delivered to the Navy at the Philadelphia Navy Yard on 14 December, and commissioned on 23 January 1865, Comdr. Paul Shirley in command.

Ordered to the Pacific Ocean, the new double-ender departed Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, at dawn on 17 February 1865 and proceeded via New York City down the Atlantic coast of the Americas looking for Confederate commerce raiders, especially for CSS Shenandoah, which had been plaguing Northern shipping.

She then steamed up the Pacific coast and arrived at Acapulco, Mexico, where she joined the Pacific Squadron on 30 July. The side-wheeler was promptly ordered to sea in quest of Shenandoah. After the Southern cruiser Shenandoah surrendered at Liverpool, England, late in the year, Suwanee cruised along the Pacific coast from Mexico to Canada. On 9 July 1868, Suwanee was wrecked in Shadwell Passage, Queen Charlotte Sound, British Columbia.
