William W. Perrine

Lieutenant William W. Perrine enlisted on 8/5/1862 as a Private, A" Co. Wisconsin 24th Infantry, and saw action at Chaplin Hill, Stones River, Chickamauga and Mission Ridge before accepting a commission in the 13th Independent Battery Wisconsin Light Artillery.

The 13th Independent Battery Wisconsin Light Artillery was a Union Army unit during the Civil War, organized in Milwaukee and mustered into service on December 29, 1863. It primarily operated in the Department of the Gulf and the Department of the Cumberland, serving in Tennessee and Alabama, and was mustered out in 20 July, 1865.

Key Details of the 13th Battery (Light Artillery):

Organization: Organized at Milwaukee, WI, with one squad mustered in Nov. 4, 1863, and another on Dec. 29, 1863.

Service & Campaigns: Left Wisconsin for New Orleans, LA, in January 1864. Later moved to Tennessee, taking part in battles such as Lookout Valley, Missionary Ridge, and the relief of Knoxville.

Action: Served in the 20th Corps, participating in the Atlanta Campaign, including battles at Resaca, Dallas, Kennesaw Mountain, and Peachtree Creek.

Final Actions: Engaged in garrison duty and fought its last engagement at Overall's Creek, Tennessee, in December 1864.

Casualties: The battery suffered 29 casualties (killed or died of disease) before being mustered out in July 1865.

24th Wisconsin Infantry Regiment

The 24th Wisconsin Infantry Regiment was a volunteer infantry regiment that served in the Union Army during the American Civil War.

Service

The 24th Wisconsin was organized at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and mustered into Federal service August 15, 1862. The regiment's flag was provided by citizens of Madison, who had promised it to the first regiment to reach full recruitment.

The regiment served under generals Grant and Sherman and was engaged in the battles Stone's River, Chickamauga, Franklin, Nashville, Missionary Ridge and Chattanooga.

The regiment was mustered out on June 10, 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee.

The regimental adjutant was Arthur MacArthur Jr. (later rose to Lieutenant General and father of General Douglas MacArthur). By the end of the war, MacArthur had risen to second in command of the regiment with the rank of colonel at the age of only 19. On September 5, 1912, Lieutenant General Arthur MacArthur died while addressing his old unit. The original 24th Wisconsin Infantry United States flag was then draped over the former commanding officer and thus the tradition of burial flags was born. MacArthur also coined the Wisconsin state slogan when he cried "On Wisconsin" as he led his men up Missionary Ridge at the battle of Chattanooga, a feat for which he would later receive the Medal of Honor.

Another officer in the regiment was 1st Lieutenant John L. Mitchell. Mitchell later became a United States Senator and was the father of Brigadier General Billy Mitchell - an outspoken and controversial advocate of air power. By great coincidence, Arthur MacArthur's son Douglas was a juror for the court martial of John Mitchell's son Billy in 1925.

Casualties

The 24th Wisconsin suffered 8 officers and 103 enlisted men killed in action or who later died of their wounds, plus another 3 officers and 87 enlisted men who died of disease, for a total of 201 fatalities.

Commanders

- Colonel Charles H. Larrabee (August 22, 1862 – August 27, 1863) fell ill after the Battle of Perryville and later resigned. Before the war he had been a member of Congress and justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court.
- Lt. Colonel Elisha C. Hibbard (December 24, 1862 – March 7, 1863) was acting commander of the regiment while Colonel Larrabee was absent at Nashville.
- Colonel Theodore S. West (March 7, 1863 – May 12, 1865) was acting commander until Larrabee's resignation. He mustered out with the regiment and received an honorary brevet to brigadier general.
- Lt. Colonel Arthur MacArthur Jr. (May 12, 1865 – June 10, 1865) mustered out with the regiment.

Organization

The Twenty-Fourth Wisconsin Infantry Regiment organized at Camp Sigel, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. They mustered into the service of the United States on August 15, 1862. Following, they left the state September 5 for Louisville, KY, then went on to Covington, KY.

Active Duty

In Kentucky, they were assigned to field duty in north central Kentucky. They participated in the battle at Chaplin Hills on October 8, 1862. After, the regiment engaged with other forces in minor movements. These included expeditions to Danville, Bowling Green, and also movements to Nashville. From there they traveled to the vicinity of Murfreesboro, TN in late December. Then, they participated in the battle of Stones River on December 31 until January 1, 1863.

After the battle, the Twenty-Fourth was on duty in and around Murfreesboro and vicinity. In June, the regiment marched southward with the Army of the Cumberland under the command of Gen. Rosecrans in the Tullahoma Campaign, from June 23 to July 7, 1863. After some short assignments, they took part in the advance from Bridgeport, AL toward Chattanooga, TN, in September. Then, they participated in the battle of Chickamauga, GA, September 19 to 20. On November 25 they engaged in the celebrated battle at Missionary Ridge. They were one of the regiments which shortly thereafter marched with the Fourth Corps to the relief of Knoxville. In this, they took part in a very arduous march taking the greater part of December and January 1864.

On May 3, 1864, the Twenty Fourth rejoined the army under General Sherman near Chattanooga. They participated in the advance of the Union forces on Rocky Face, and subsequently, the Atlanta Campaign from May 1 to September 8, 1864. Some of their actions included in the battles of Resaca on May 15, Adairsville on May 17, the movements around Dalton, May 18-19, and several battles around Dallas from May 26 to June 1. After, they would participate in the operations about Kennesaw Mountain from June 10 to July 2. They they'd take part in the assault on Kennesaw June 27. Following, they took part in the battle of Peach Tree Creek July 20 and the Siege of Atlanta July 22 to August 25. Next, they had operations around Lovejoy Station from September 2 to 6, 1864.

In late September, the Twenty Fourth was designated as one of the regiments to return northward to oppose the advance of the Confederates under General Hood. Following the order, the 24th reached Chattanooga on September 24. After taking part in various stages of the Union retreat, they participated in the battle of Franklin, on November 30. They also had part in the battle of Nashville, December 15-16, 1864, where the Confederates were decisively defeated. The 24th participated in the subsequent pursuit of the Confederates, marching as far south as Florence, AL until the pursuit was abandoned on December 29.

Later, the 24th Infantry returned to Huntsville. After various movements, they reached Nashville on April 24 and went into camp. On June 10, 1865, the regiment mustered out of the service. After, they reached Milwaukee on the 15 and disbanded.

Casualties

The 24th Wisconsin Infantry Regiment lost 8 officers and 103 men to mortal wounds. Along with 3 officers and 87 men to disease.

This regiment, known as the "Milwaukee Regiment," was organized at Camp Sigel, Milwaukee, and was mustered in at various dates from Aug. 15 to 21, 1862. It left the state Sept. 5, and reached Covington, Ky., on the 11th, whence it was sent to Louisville and assigned to the 37th brigade, 11th division.

It was first in action at the battle of Perryville, and of its conduct the brigade commander said: "The 24th Wis. went forward with cheers and soon engaged the enemy's right, pouring in and keeping up a cross-fire which made sad havoc among them. This was the first brigade to break. * * * Both officers and men behaved with coolness and deliberation, marching to the front with the steadiness of veterans."

The regiment proceeded to Crab Orchard and Bowling Green, reached Edgefield, near Nashville, on Nov. 8, and moved to Mill creek on the 22nd. It was engaged in the battle of Stone's River, losing 175 in killed, wounded and prisoners, after which it encamped at Murfreesboro until June.

In July and August it marched to Cowan, Tenn., and Bridgeport, Ala.; participated in the battle of Chickamauga, sustaining a loss of 105 in killed, wounded and missing; took an important part in the storming of Missionary Ridge, making the ascent under a heavy fire and carrying the enemy's position on the crest of the ridge, assisted in raising the siege of Knoxville, Tenn., and was then on guard duty until Jan. 15, 1864.

On the following day it dislodged the enemy from a piece of woods near Dandridge, and was then assigned to duty at division headquarters until May, when it joined the Atlanta movement.

On this campaign it was in action at Resaca and near Adairsville; was under fire at Dallas for 11 days; took part in the operations in front of Kennesaw Mountain; fought at Peachtree Creek, and was then on railroad, guard and garrison duty until Nov. 1.

It was with Gen. Thomas through Tennessee and Alabama during the fall, fought valiantly at Franklin one of the severest battles in which the regiment had been engaged and Gen. Stanley said: "I will not absolutely say the 24th Wis. saved the battle of Franklin, but they had a great deal to do with saving it."

It participated in the battle at Nashville in December and spent the remainder of the winter at Huntsville, Ala. It was mustered out at Nashville June 10, 1865.

Its original strength was 1,003. Gain by recruits, 74; total, 1,077. Loss by death, 173; desertion, 71; transfer, 138; discharge, 289; mustered out, 406.

Chickamagua after battle report:

Report of Maj. Carl von Baumbach, Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Infantry.

HDQRS. 24TH REGT. WISCONSIN VOL. INFANTRY

GEN.: I have the honor to submit the following report of the part taken by this regiment in the late engagements, September 19 and 20, before Chattanooga, viz:

On the morning of the 19th instant the regiment marched from camp near Pond Spring at 11 a. m., under the command of Lieut.

Col. T. S. West, to a short distance beyond Gordon's Mills, where it was formed in line on the right of the Chattanooga road, fronting the Chickamauga Creek, the right resting on the barricades built by Gen. Wood's division the previous night, our regiment and the Thirty-sixth Illinois forming the first line, and the Eighty-eighth Illinois and the Twenty-first Michigan the second line.

In accordance with orders from Brig.-Gen. Lytle, we here sent 1 commissioned officer and 10 men to deploy as skirmishers along the edge of the creek to watch the movements of the enemy. We had not remained long in this position before the enemy opened on us with one piece of artillery, but which fortunately did us no harm. We remained in this position until shortly after dark, when we received orders from Gen. Lytle to move about 200 paces to the rear in the edge of a piece of timber, where we bivouacked for the night.

At 3 a. m. on the morning of the 20th the regiment assembled under arms, and shortly after were marched directly in the rear of the Eleventh Indiana Battery down the Chattanooga road to Lee's Hill, where we formed in line to the right and rear of Widow Crane's house (Gen. Rosecrans' former headquarters), the Eighty-eighth Illinois and the Twenty-first Michigan forming the first line, and the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin and Thirty-sixth Illinois the second line. We remained in this position until half past 10 a. m., when we were moved about one-fourth of a mile farther down the Chattanooga road at a double-quick, where we formed line on the right of the road facing the Chickamauga Creek, under a terrific fire from the enemy, our right resting on the Twenty-first Michigan and our left on the Thirty-sixth Illinois; here we fought the enemy for nearly half an hour, driving him entirely from our front.

We here lost our brave and gallant Brig. Gen. W. H. Lytle, who was shot down while in the rear of the center of our regiment encouraging the men. About that time the enemy moved a heavy column upon our left flank, and the regiment on our left having given way, we were exposed to a severe enfilading fire. Our two left companies were swung to the rear and poured an effective fire into their ranks, but they still moving up in overwhelming numbers we were at last forced to give way. We retreated in some disorder, but quickly reformed on a hill some 400 yards to our rear. Our brave and gallant young commander, Lieut. Col. T. S. West, being among the missing, I here assumed command, and in accordance with orders received from Col. S. Miller, I moved my regiment with the rest of the brigade down the Chattanooga and La Fayette road, and thence up the Chattanooga and Ringgold road about 5 miles, where we halted for a short time, and then marched back to Rossville, where we bivouacked for the night.

On the morning of the 21st, in obedience to orders, I marched my regiment to the front and took my position in line. We here threw up some breastworks and occupied them until about 1 a. m. of the 22d, when I marched with the rest of the brigade to our present position near Chattanooga.

I cannot speak too highly of the conduct of both officers and men; they advanced and formed into line under a terrific fire from the enemy with a coolness and celerity that was most admirable, and when driven from their position by overwhelming numbers quickly reformed and were as eager as ever to be led on again.

Where all did so well it is hard to discriminate, but I would make especial mention of Lieut. Thomas E. Balding, acting adjutant, for his gallant conduct and efficient aid as acting field officer after I assumed command. I would also tender my thanks to Surg. H. E. Hasse for his care and attention to the wounded men.

Inclosing a list of the casualties, and tendering in behalf of the officers of the regiment my thank to Col. S. Miller for his untiring exertions for our welfare and comfort, I have the honor to be, general, your most obedient servant,

CARL VON BAUMBACH Maj., Comdg. Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Volunteers.

Report of Maj. Carl von Baumbach, Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Infantry.

HDQRS. TWENTY-FOURTH WISCONSIN VOLUNTEERS, Camp near Chattanooga, November 27, 1863.

LIEUT.; In compliance with orders, I have the honor to submit the following report as to the part my regiment took in the late campaign:

My command moved from camp at 2 p.m. on Monday, the 23d instant, and took position in line of battle on the left of the Dalton road. I remained in this position until about half past 2 o'clock the next (Tuesday) morning, when I moved my command, by order of Col. Miller, by the left flank, and took position about half a mile from my original one. I remained in this position until half past 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. From here we moved by the right flank a distance of about one-quarter of a mile to the left and rear of our first position. We remained in this position about two hours and a half. We then advanced by the right flank directly to the front a distance of quarter a mile. We then formed line of battle immediately on the left of the Eighty-eighth Illinois Volunteers, remained in this position about one hour and a half, at the expiration of which time I received orders to advance. We advanced a short distance at the common step, when the command was given to move at double-quick. My regiment advanced in admirable line of battle up to the first pits of the enemy. Upon reaching the first line the men were pretty much exhausted, and unable to move for some time. In about five minutes, however, we moved over the first pits of the enemy, but after advancing beyond the first line, the line of battle was not regular. The men took advantage of all obstacles in the way for shelter, and thus advanced steadily toward the top of the ridge. The fighting fierce and severe, but owing to the formation of the ground my men were able to screen themselves partially from the deadly volleys were being hurled at us at every step of our advance. In the course of the ascent my men had to rest several times on account of exhaustion. But at length we succeeded in gaining the crest of the ridge, after two hours' steady fighting.

My regiment remained on the top of the ridge for about four hours, when my men were provided with rations. We then moved down the opposite side of the ridge in a southerly direction, halted about 2 1/2 miles from our position on the top of the ridge, remained in this position all night and until about 10 o'clock Thursday, morning, when we moved forward toward Chickamauga Station, about 3 miles, where we halted and remained for some hours. From here we moved back toward our old camp near Chattanooga, where we arrived at sundown.

During the engagement of Wednesday I have to lament the loss of the following officers: Capt. Howard Greene, who was killed instantly while gallantly cheering on his men. Lieut. Robert J. Chivas was also instantly killed cheering in the advancing lines. Capt. Richard H. Austin was quite severely wounded on the thigh and neck; never lived a braver man than the captain. Lieut. Thomas E. Balding was wounded very severely in the right lung. I wish especially to mention him for his gallantry on the field.

I take great pleasure in stating that all the officers and men did finely, and deserve a great deal of credit.

I would most respectfully mention Adj. Arthur MacArthur, jr., for his bravery. When the color sergeant was exhausted he carried the flag in front of the regiment, cheering the men to follow him up the ridge.

Accompanying you will find a list of casualties.

I am, respectfully, yours,

CARL VON BAUMBACH, Maj., Cmdg. Regt.

Lieut. NIEMAN, Actg. Asst. Adj. Gen., First Brigade.

Report of Maj. Arthur MacArthur, jr., Twenty-Fourth Wisconsin Infantry.

HDQRS. TWENTY-FOURTH WISCONSIN VOL. INFTRY., Near Atlanta, Ga., September 12, 1864.

LIEUT.: I have the honor to submit the following report of the part taken by this regiment in the late campaign:

On the 3d of May, 1864, the regiment rejoined the brigade while on the march, having for the previous three months been on duty at the headquarters Second Division. On the 9th we advanced and took position on Rocky Face Ridge in front of Dalton; remained in this position with some slight changes until the morning of the 13th, when it was ascertained that the enemy had evacuated their fortified position. We passed through Dalton and continued the march in the direction of Resaca, near which place the enemy were developed on the 14th. About 2 p. m. advanced with the brigade about 300 yards, when we debouched into an open field. Here we were exposed to galling fire of both artillery and small-arms. Receiving no orders to halt, the regiment advanced at a double-quick step toward a small elevation, behind which we took temporary shelter. After a short delay we advanced to the crest of the elevation and engaged the enemy. In crossing the field before mentioned the regiment became detached from the brigade, the balance of the brigade, with the exception of the Fifteenth Missouri and Thirty-sixth Illinois, not crossing the field. After being engaged about two hours I went to the rear with the command to replenish ammunition, clean guns, &c. Toward night I again took position, but was not engaged, night having temporarily put an end to the fighting. About 2 a. m. on the morning of the 15th I was relieved from this position and retired about 200 yards, where I remained until daylight. About 8 a. m. on the 15th I again engaged the enemy, but as we were behind works not any one was injured. Toward noon I relieved some troops on the right of Battery M, First Illinois Light Artillery. I retained this position until the next morning, when the fact was developed that the enemy had left our front. During the engagement Lieut. Col. T. S. West was wounded. This devolved the command upon myself. The line of march was immediately taken up in pursuit of the retiring enemy. Passing through Resaca, we camped on the night of the 16th near Calhoun, through which town we passed the next morning. Toward noon I relieved the Thirtieth Illinois in support of the skirmish line. The skirmishers advanced without any aid from me of any moment until within a few miles of Adairsville, Ga. Here the enemy displayed so strong a force that Col. Barrett, commanding the skirmish line, requested me to deploy three companies on the right of the road to assist his line. In accordance with the request, I deployed Companies A, F, and D, under command of Lieut. T. T. Keith. Shortly after Col. Barrett requested me to bring the balance of my command to his assistance. I immediately deployed two more companies on the right and the remaining four companies on the left of the road. The united efforts of the two regiments made no visible impression on the enemy. Shortly after the entire brigade became engaged; the fighting was very severe and lasted from about 3 p. m. until after dark. I have to lament in this engagement the loss of Lieut. Thomas T. Keith, killed, and Lieut. George Allanson, severely wounded. The next morning the march was resumed, passing through Adairsville in the direction of Kingston, where we arrived without any interruption of movement on the 19th of May. Remained in camp near Kingston until the 23d of May, when the march was again resumed and continued without interruption until arriving in the vicinity of Dallas on the 25th. On the night of the 25th got into position; in the morning threw up works. Remained in this position eleven days all the time under fire, men being killed and wounded in the most retired line of works. While in this position Lieut. George Coote was severely wounded.

From the position in front of Dallas we moved toward Acworth, near which place I remained until the 10th of June. Nothing of moment occurred in my command until the 15th, on the night of which day we threw up works, which were abandoned on the 16th, and a new line constructed in advance. On the morning of the 17th it was again ascertained that the enemy had evacuated their position in our front. On the morning of the 18th advanced on the enemy by the right of companies to the front. This was accomplished with a great deal of difficulty, as the rain was pouring in torrents and the ground to be passed over almost impassable on account of mud; during the day threw up works under fire. During the night the enemy again left their position; they were again developed near Kenesaw Mountain. The next morning (20th) works were constructed which were a valuable protection in the afternoon. During the day Capt. David Y Horning, Company E, was wounded. During the evening I was relieved from my position by a portion of the Fourteenth Army Corps. From here I marched about one and a half miles toward the right. After getting into position works were immediately constructed. On the morning of the 22d I was ordered with my command on the skirmish line. In accordance with instructions from the division officer of the day, I advanced in conjunction with the skirmishers of the Twentieth Army Corps. Owing to some misunderstanding the line connecting with my left did not advance, thus exposing my left to a flank movement and my entire line to an enfilading fire. On this account I was compelled to retire, leaving 2 of my dead in the enemy's skirmish works. In the afternoon I advanced again and occupied successfully all the ground that was desired. I was relieved toward midnight, when I retired behind the works, in which position I remained without anything of moment occurring until the morning of the 27th. In accordance with directions, I formed my regiment on the First Division, right in front, and directly in the rear of the Eighty-eighth Illinois. About 8.30 the formation was complete, and the advance ordered; the ground to be passed over was covered with fallen timber, forming an almost impassable abatis; the men, however, advanced most admirably. Having advanced three-fourths of the distance between our own and the enemy's works, I was ordered to halt. The head of the column had reached the enemy's works and on account of our halting began to retire in some confusion, this was communicated to some extent to the men that were somewhat retired, but was quickly quieted. I remained in this position exposed to a most galling fire of artillery and infantry for half an hour, unable to reply on account of the formation. After it had been sufficiently demonstrated that we could not occupy the enemy's works, I was ordered to retire with my command. I marched my regiment back to the position occupied before the assault. In this engagement I have to lament the loss temporarily of Adjutant Horace Buchanan, who was quite severely wounded.

On the night of the 27th I was on picket, on which tour of duty I lost several men wounded.

I remained in the position behind the works until the 2d day of July, when I was relieved from my position and ordered to a position about a mile to the left of my former one. On the morning of the 3d it was again found that the enemy had left our front. The march was taken up and continued until about five miles south of Marietta, where the enemy was found. This position was evacuated on the morning of the 5th of July. The line of march was immediately taken up in pursuit, and on the night of the 5th we camped on the north bank of the Chattahoochee River. Remained in this position with a slight change of camp until the 13th, on which day we crossed the Chattahoochee River and went into camp, where we remained until the 18th. On the night of the 19th crossed Peach Tree Creek and took position near there the battle was fought the next day. The engagement of the 20th was a very brilliant affair, the enemy advancing on our works, which were very hastily constructed, and were each time repulsed and driven back in great disorder. On the 21st I remained quiet all day, and on the 22d the enemy retired; we immediately pursued and got into position in the vicinity of Atlanta. Threw up works; remained here with a slight change of position until the 25th of August, on the night of which we retired from our position and marched toward the right; continued the march without anything of any moment occurring until the 1st of September, when we struck the Macon railroad, spent most of the day in destroying the road. Toward evening the firing on the right indicated that the enemy were being engaged by some portion of our army. Took my position in line at double-quick and advanced by the right of companies to the front. About 5.30 p. m. became engaged; moved across all open field in conjunction with the Forty-fourth Illinois. In this affair I have to lament the loss of Lieut. Fred Schlenstedt, who was killed. On the morning of the 2d we advanced without opposition until near Lovejoy's Station. At this place went into position and remained here until the night of the 5th, when we retired in the direction of Atlanta, which place we arrived at on the 8th, and went into our present camp.

I cannot speak too highly of the conduct of both, officers and men throughout the long and tedious Campaign, and I desire to make especial mention of Lieut. J. W. Clark, for his valuable assistance throughout the entire campaign.

I remain, lieutenant, your most obedient servant,

ARTHUR MACARTHUR, JR., Maj., Comdg., Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Volunteers.

Nashville, TN after battle report:

No. 47.

Report of Capt. Edwin B. Parson, Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Infantry, of operations November 29-December 1, 1864.

HDQRS. TWENTY-FOURTH WISCONSIN VOLUNTEERS, Nashville, December 4, 1864.

CAPT.: In obedience to orders from your headquarters this day I have the honor to make the following report of the part taken by my regiment in the late battle at Franklin, and the movements from the 29th ultimo to the 1st instant, inclusive:

At 8 a. m., on the morning of the 29th ultimo, in obedience to orders, we broke camp in front of Columbia, and marched left in front, following the Thirty-sixth Illinois; marching rapidly we arrived at Spring Hill about 11 a. m., moving through the town at double-quick, and formed line of battle with the Thirty-sixth Illinois on our right and the Forty-fourth Illinois on our left; advanced about 400 yards, halted and threw up a barricade of rails. Arrived just in time to prevent the enemy's cavalry from entering the town. We remained in this position until about 4.30 p. m., when we were ordered to the railroad station; we threw up a barricade and remained all night, picketing our front and connecting with the pickets of the Forty-fourth Illinois on our right. On the morning of the 30th, at 4 a. m., in obedience to orders, we marched to the right of the Franklin pike, where we formed in line with One hundred and twenty-fifth Ohio on our right and the Thirty-sixth Illinois on our left, acting as rear guard. We marched in this manner until we arrived near Franklin, when, the skirmishers being withdrawn from our front, we were ordered to take position behind a stone wall on the left of pike and observe the movements of the enemy. After remaining in this position three-quarters of an hour we were ordered to move by the flank again toward the rear; moving a short distance the order was countermanded, and the regiment was deployed as skirmishers; remaining in this position about half an hour we were ordered to move by the flank into Franklin, which we did, first deploying three companies as skirmishers to cover the rear. Arriving near the works the regiment was relieved by a regiment from the Second Brigade. We then marched in with the other regiments of the brigade, went 400 yards to the rear of the works, where we stacked arms, and the men were allowed to rest and get their dinners, it being now about 2.30 p. m., having marched without breakfast. At about 4.30 p. m. the enemy attacked our lines furiously, and the troops in the works in our front gave in confusion. We charged forward with fixed bayonets, driving many stragglers back to the works and retaking a part of the lines, which had been momentarily held by the enemy. The fighting at this point was for a time hand to hand, one of my sergeants receiving a severe wound in the head from a saber in the hands of a rebel officer. The regiment remained behind the works keeping up a continual fire until about 11 p. m., when, Maj. MacArthur having been wounded and Capt. Philbrook, acting field officer, killed, I assumed command of the regiment, and, in obedience to orders, formed it and marched back to town, when we remained about half an hour, when I was ordered to follow the One hundred and twenty-fifth Ohio and form line a short distance in rear of the works to support the line in case of necessity. We remained in this position about three-quarters of an hour, when I was ordered to follow the One hundred and twenty-fifth Ohio across the river, marching all night toward Nashville. Maj. MacArthur was severely wounded soon after the engagement commenced while gallantry leading his regiment in the thickets of the fight, and Capt. Philbrook, then whom a braver officer never lived, was killed near me while nobly performing his duty. I deeply regret we are obliged to leave his body in the hands of the enemy.

Our loss in enlisted men was killed, 16 wounded, and 3 missing.

Where all did so nobly 'tis impossible to note each individual case of gallantry without doing injustice to others. For some seven hours the regiment was under the fire of the enemy, the men volunteering as often as necessary to go back and bring up supplies of ammunition, and keeping up so constant a fire as to prevent the enemy again advancing on the works.

I desire to make mention of Sergts. Felix McSorely and Thomas Toohey, of Company F, who assisted in working the guns of the battery near the right of the regiment after nearly every man had left them, the fire of the enemy being hotter at this time than any point on the line. I would also mention Corpl. John Miller, of Company B, who brought off the colors of the Fifty-first Illinois that had been left on the field, carrying them all night he delivered them to the adjutant of that regiment the next day.

On December 1 we continued our march until about noon, when we formed line and went into camp near Nashville.

I have the honor to be, your obedient servant,

E. B. PARSONS, Capt., Cmdg.

Capt. R. C. POWERS, Actg. Asst. Adjt. Gen., First Brigade, Second Division.

No. 48.

Report of Capt. Charles Hartung, Twenty-fourth Wisconsin Infantry, of operations December 15-16, 1864.

HDQRS. TWENTY-FOURTH WISCONSIN VOLUNTEERS, Huntsville, January 13, 1865.

CAPT.: In obedience to orders I have the honor to report the following part taken by my regiment in that late engagements in front of Nashville, December 15 and 16, 1864:

On the morning of the 15th ultimo, in obedience to orders, the command was in readiness to move at an early hour, but did not until about 8 a. m., when it followed the Seventy-third Illinois. Moved out of the intrenchments and to the right of our former position, and closed en masse in rear of the first line of battle. After lying in this position about two hours the order to move forward was given; halted several times before reaching the first range of hills. When near the brow of the hill we halted until, the fire from the enemy's battery being so accurate, the order was given to deploy the regiment and move forward to a fence, where we remained near two hours. We then moved over the hill through a ravine and to the foot of another hill on which the enemy had a redoubt. Remained here but a short time getting into position preparatory to making a charge on the works, when we moved forward at double-quick, and the works were carried without opposition. After reaching the top of the hill we remained in line about an hour, when we moved to the front nearly a mile by the right flank. The regiment was then ordered on the skirmish line, and moved forward about half a mile after deploying.

It now being dark, we soon struck the enemy's skirmishers, when brisk firing commenced. Maintained the position until orders were received to retire. Moved a short distance to the rear, threw up a line of works, and remained all night. At 6 a. m. on the morning of the 16th the order was received to move forward. Moved cautiously about two miles, when we came upon the enemy's skirmishers and drove them steadily back to their main line of works, where we remained until about 3 p. m., when the regiment was relieved by a regiment from Gen. Steedman's command; the regiment then retired a short distance and awaited orders. Remained in this position nearly two hours, when orders came to rejoin the brigade. After rejoining the brigade the regiment marched in line of battle about two miles to the front and went into camp.

I have the honor to be, captain, respectfully, yours, &c.,

CHAS HARTUNG, Capt., Cmdg.

13th Independent Battery Wisconsin Light Artillery

The 13th Independent Battery Wisconsin Light Artillery was a Union Army unit during the Civil War, organized in Milwaukee and mustered into service on December 29, 1863. It primarily operated in the Department of the Gulf and the Department of the Cumberland, serving in Tennessee and Alabama, and was mustered out in 20 July, 1865.

Key Details of the 13th Battery (Light Artillery):

Organization: Organized at Milwaukee, WI, with one squad mustered in Nov. 4, 1863, and another on Dec. 29, 1863.

Service & Campaigns: Left Wisconsin for New Orleans, LA, in January 1864. Later moved to Tennessee, taking part in battles such as Lookout Valley, Missionary Ridge, and the relief of Knoxville.

Action: Served in the 20th Corps, participating in the Atlanta Campaign, including battles at Resaca, Dallas, Kennesaw Mountain, and Peachtree Creek.

Final Actions: Engaged in garrison duty and fought its last engagement at Overall's Creek, Tennessee, in December 1864.

Casualties: The battery suffered 29 casualties (killed or died of disease) before being mustered out in July 1865

Thirteenth Light Battery

Capt., Richard R. Griffith; First Lieuts., George L. Cross, Alfred E. Chaffee, William W. Perrine, William M. Bristol; Second Lieuts., William W. Perrine, William M. Bristol, Frank Fox, David Kinder.

This battery was organized in the fall of 1863 at Milwaukee. One squad was mustered in Nov.

4 and the other Dec. 29. The battery left the state Jan. 28, 1864, reached Memphis on Feb. 1, and New Orleans on the 12th.

It was ordered to Baton Rouge and assigned to duty in Fort Williams, where it was placed in charge of 6 heavy guns. On June 17 it was ordered to provost duty in the city of Baton Rouge, but returned to Fort Williams on July 8, taking charge of 7 barbette guns, and on the 10th was completely equipped as light artillery, taking the entire equipment of the 1st Vt. battery, whose term of service had expired.

On the 15th it went into camp at Baton Rouge and remained there until ordered home. It was mustered out at Milwaukee, July 20, 1865.

Its original strength was 156. Gain by recruits, 32; total, 188. Loss by death, 14; missing, 1; desertion, 25; transfer, 3; discharge, 39; mustered out, 106.

Major Durgin, N. H. Culver; First Heavy Artillery, Major Hubbell, Captain Jennings; First Battery, Captain Webster; Seventh Battery, especially to Sergeant John E. Warren; Ninth Battery, Captain Dodge; Tenth Battery, very much to Lieutenant Fowler, to Captain Beebe, and Lieutenant Groesbeck; Thirteenth Battery, to Lieutenants Bristoll and Perrine; and to others credited on pages where their aid was received. Also to Adjutant D. Lloyd Jones, Sixteenth Regiment.

The lists of the wounded, the best that could be obtained, have been found quite defective, and some, for want of space, have necessarily been omitted.

The steel plate portraits provided for this book have been selected chiefly on the representative plan. Governors and Major Generals have been taken, for the former represented emphatically the State, and the latter the soldiers of the State. When the candidate for governor of one political party was selected, it seemed inappropriate not to select the candidate of the other party. The Secretary of State and a prominent member of Congress had both served long and well in the army, hence they were chosen. The commander of the first Wisconsin regiment sent to the field, the one Wisconsin chaplain who became brevet brigadier general, and the youngest regimental commanding officer of the State, perhaps of the Nation, have been selected. Several portraits of the worthy dead are given, and others would have been if obtained. I distinctly state that I believe many others were equally as brave and deserving as some that have been chosen, but the representative plan did not point to their selection, or I was not able to procure engravings of them. I reserve to myself the privilege of changes in the future.

I am deeply conscious that this work has many imperfections. I can hardly bear to offer it to the public; but I have taken much pains to have it thorough and reliable, and hope it may have some value to Wisconsin citizens.

If errors are learned, corrections will be made in future editions, if published.

son October 4th, 1865. The muster-out roster was as follows :

Captain—WATSON D. CROCKER.

1st Lieutenant—John A. Edington.

Jun. 2d Lieutenant—Albert Helliwell.

Jun. 1st Lieutenant—Henry A. Hicks.

STATISTICS.—Original strength, 155. Gain :—by recruits in 1863, 4; in 1864, 53; in 1865, 6; reënlistments, 78; total, 296. Loss :—by death, 6; desertion, 6; transfer, 1; discharge, 56; muster-out, 227.

THIRTEENTH BATTERY.

The Thirteenth Battery rendezvoused at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee. The first enlistments were in June, 1863. November 4th, seventy-one men and one first lieutenant were mustered in. December 29th, the organization was completed. January 28th, 1864, they left the State for New Orleans. The officers were :

Captain—RICHARD R. GRIFFITH.

1st Lieutenant—Geo. L. Cross.

2d Lieutenant—Wm. W. Perrine.

Jun. 1st Lieutenant—A. E. Chaffee.

Jun. 2d Lieutenant—W. M. Bristoll.

Tarrying a few days at Memphis, they reached New Orleans February 12th, and five days afterward were sent to Baton Rouge, where they were armed with Springfield rifle muskets, and engaged in guard and other duty. They were quartered in Fort Williams, on the river bank north of the city. In the fort was a good library of historical and religious books, to which they had access. The battery had under its charge at this time five twenty-four-pounder guns, and one thirty-two-pounder. June 17th, they were detailed for provost duty in Baton Rouge, and July 7th were relieved, to take charge of seven barbette guns in the northern part of Fort Williams. Three days later, they were completely equipped as light artillery, taking the guns, horses, wagons, mules and full equipments of the First Vermont Battery, whose term of service had expired. Their guns were four three-inch rifled Rodmans (iron pieces), and two twelve-pounder Napoleons. July 15th, they marched out of the fort, into a camp, and parked their guns. August 4th, the right and left sections, under command of Captain Griffith, marched with a body of cavalry, seven miles south, to Highland Stockade, in anticipation of an attack upon that post. The centre section remained in camp, under command of Lieutenant Perrine, with the horses harnessed ready for instant action, as a heavy attack upon Baton Rouge was momentarily expected. August 17th, Captain Griffith was dangerously wounded by an accidental shot from a pistol in the hands of a sergeant, who was also slightly wounded. Lieutenant Perrine was now the only officer remaining for duty, Lieutenants G. L. Cross and A. E. Chaffee being under arrest, and Lieutenant Bristoll being on detached duty. The two former lieutenants were subsequently dismissed from the service. March 9th, 1865, one section of the battery consisting of the twelve-pounder guns, under command of Lieutenant Perrine, accompanied an expedition to Clinton, Louisiana, where they remained until the 20th, Lieutenant Perrine being detailed as provost marshal of the place. They were soon after reduced for want of numbers to a four-gun battery. July 6th, they embarked at Baton Rouge for home, arrived at Milwaukee on the 12th, and were entertained at the Soldiers' Home Fair. On the 20th, they were paid and discharged. Lieutenant Bristoll was appointed post ordnance officer, with important trusts, first at Baton Rouge, and then at New Orleans, where he was retained in the service until July, 1866. The muster-out roster was the following :

Captain—RICHARD R. GRIFFITH.

1st Lieutenant—William W. Perrine.
Jun. 1st Lieutenant—Wm. M. Bristoll.

2d Lieutenant—Frank Fox.
Jun. 2d Lieutenant—David Rinder.

STATISTICS.—Original strength, 156. Gain :—by recruits in 1864, 22; in 1865, 10; total, 188. Loss :—by death, 14; missing, 1; desertion, 25; transfer, 3; discharge, 39; muster-out, 106.

Sir:

I am writing to you for my father
Mr. William W. Perrine, who is drawing a pension for war service at the rate of ($18.00) eighteen dollars per month under Certificate No. 1,118,630. He enlisted as Private, Co A. 24th Wisconsin Infantry on August 5th 1862, and was mustered out of the service as First Lieutenant, 13th Wisconsin Light Battery, July 20. 1865. (Honorable Discharge).
G. O. 105 War Dept. 1865. He reached the age of (70) seventy years on May 8-1913.

Father has been confined to the house since the first part of February, and has partially lost his power of speech, and is unable to write.

Very Respectfully

George Perrine

I hereby apply for increase in pension under the Act May 11-1912 having reached the age of 70.

Very respectfully

Dear Sir,

My father Mr. W. W. Perrine, late First Lieutenant 13th Inf. Artillery, Wis. S. A. who has applied for pension under act of May 11-1912 is unable to speak or write, and has been so afflicted since February 1913.

We have no Bible record of his birth.

He was born in Lyons N.Y. May 8-1843. His father's name was George W. Perrine M.D. His mother's name was Celine Opdyke Perrine. Some of Father's military records such as Discharges, Commissions etc were sent to Washington when he applied for pension one year ago, and for which he is receiving quarterly checks.

On Father's Discharge from the service dated Milwaukee July 11-1865 his age is given as twenty two (22). I will send this paper to you if that is sufficient proof.

Dear Sir,

In answer to your letter of Oct 10-1913 concerning my father's claim for pension under the act of May 11-1912, would say that his father was born in Lyons N.Y. Dec 16-1816 and graduated from Geneva N.Y. Medical College in 1839. Father's mother was from Fayette N.Y. and was married there in July 1-1841. My father had a brother who was born in Pittsford N.Y. on May 31-1849, and another on March 13 1854.

As I have written previously, my father has been unable to talk or write since February last, so I am writing for him.

From the above information and dates is shown that father and his parents lived in Pittsford N.Y. in 1850, his father at Lyons in 1840, and his mother at Fayette N.Y. in 1840.
